Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 11 July 2008.
2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 16-21 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Navas (5,480,401).

Navas discloses the claimed invention including a fixation device 1 comprising a support member 1a, 3 having a slot (e.g. defined by 4b, 3c, etc.) extending through the side thereof, first and second support shafts 5 extending through the slot of the support member, and a coupling assembly positioned along the support member (see, e.g. Figs 1-4 and col. 1, lines 24-29 and 40-67). The slot and the support shafts are configured and dimensioned to allow movement of the support shafts in a longitudinal direction with respect to the support member. The coupling device is sufficiently "configured and arranged" to be capable of satisfying the intended uses set forth in claim 16. A variable force is applied against the support shafts by resilient members 7. Since members 7 are resilient and have an inherent spring rate, they can be considered springs. The device includes at least one threaded, selectively positionable coupler, e.g. 50, 51 (in the embodiment of Fig. 4).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11 July 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's amendment directed to the intended use of the device for fixating a fractured bone, it is noted that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is at least capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. It is noted that the device need only be capable of performing the intended use and need not be an optimal or preferred configuration. Given that the device of Navas is designed to be anchored in bone and provides a certain degree of stabilization, it could be used for the claimed purpose. The coupling assembly of Navas is capable of performing each of the intended uses set forth in the claims.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
